

In the figure, the squares represent the OR and the horizontal lines the 95% confidence intervals. The size of the squares is proportional to the amount of statistical information (i.e. inversely proportional to the variance of the log OR).
 *in men only
 p(het)= p value for heterogeneity comparing the OR for obesity per 2 hours of additional daily screen time in the different sub-groups