- Wearing fitted jeans and tank top, expensive-looking handbag

SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS:

- Appears healthy and well-nourished

HOME AND SCHOOL LIFE:

- Living in a flat with a female roommate; family lives upcountry, parents are older, very religious, she is the youngest in a family of 7 children. She has one child, age 3, who lives upcountry with adolescent's mother
- Attending first year college, non-boarding school
- School work is suffering; when probed, reveals having little time to study due to unplanned visits from "sponsor" as well as limited time with study group members due to "sponsor" concerns of engagement with male classmates
- Many age-mate friends
- No involvement in HIV peer support groups

MEDICATIONS:

- Prescribed ARVs once a day; takes antiretroviral therapy consistently except for missing the occasional dose when "sponsor" is visiting
- Uses oral contraceptives, no other use of over the counter (OTC) drugs, herbal or traditional medications, or illicit/street drugs

PAST MEDICAL HISTORY:

General: Recurrent STIs. No Opportunistic Infections.

HIV testing history: Tested at age 16 as part of couples testing after her previous boyfriend learned that he was HIV positive. Went to clinic with another boyfriend (age 18) and were tested as a couple, although he knew his status. Health care worker made her feel ashamed for having sex outside of marriage and did not refer her for any family planning or support services after testing positive.

HIV treatment history: Initiated at age 17 a year after positive test. Initial CD4 did not qualify her for treatment. Once medication initiated, she was able to take medications consistently with minimal issues with adherence. Takes ARVs at same time as oral contraceptives daily.

HIV disclosure history: Ex-boyfriend and three close female friends know her status. Not disclosed to family members. Has one friend who is also HIV positive with whom she discusses challenges but is not part of a support group.

SEXUAL HISTORY

Marital status: not married, has boyfriend/"sponsor" who is 40, has one child, age 3 who lives with adolescent's mother.

Sexual activity: 6 lifetime sexual partners; early sexual debut at age 14. Currently sexually active with "sponsor" where condomless sex is expected for financial support, although does not identify as a sex worker. Sexual activity is frequent 4-5 times per week and does not feel able to negotiate for condom use with partner due to potential loss of financial support and verbal abuse/accusations of infidelity to
